

Setting your inspection prices

Inspections are quoted per rig and per level, not by the hour, so your listing gets a line for each one you sell. About five minutes.

1 Sign in and open your profile.

Go to yellowpagesrv.com, press Sign in at the top right, then either the green Face ID or fingerprint button if you have set a passkey up, or type the email you signed up with and use the code or link that arrives. You land on your profile.

The screenshot shows the 'Tech sign in' screen on the Yellow Pages RV app. At the top, there's a header with the Yellow Pages RV logo and a 'Help' link. The main heading is 'Tech sign in'. Below it, a message states: 'No password. Your face or fingerprint if you set that up, or your email and a link or a code.' There are two main sign-in options: a green button labeled 'Sign in with Face ID or fingerprint' and a text input field for 'The email you signed up with' containing 'yourname@example.com'. Below the email field is a green 'Continue' button. At the bottom, there's a link 'Not signed up yet? Sign up.' and a footer with links for 'Map', 'Terms', 'Privacy', and 'For technicians'. It also mentions 'Powered by SKILL ABOVE' and has a 'Feedback' button.

2 Tick Inspector.

In the first card, Your name and badges, under What kind of work do you take?, tick Inspector. You can tick it alongside RV technician and Engine and chassis, or on its own. Ticking it puts an Inspection pricing box in the What you charge card further down. Unticking it later takes every inspection line off your listing when you save.

The screenshot shows the 'What kind of work do you take?' selection screen. It has a heading 'What kind of work do you take?' and a subtext: 'Add or drop these any time. A tech who picks up inspections later just ticks the box.' There are three selection boxes, each with a checkmark icon. The first is 'RV technician, house side' with subtext 'Electrical, plumbing, appliances, slides, roof, doors, windows.' The second is 'Engine and chassis' with subtext 'Engines, transmissions, differentials, air bags, chassis work.' The third is 'Inspector' with subtext 'Pre purchase and condition inspections.' This third box is highlighted with a red border. Below these is a 'Brand specialist' section with a 'Why this matters' link. A dark card below that says 'Only tick this if you really do work one make' and contains text about technicians who follow the rallies. At the bottom, there are four buttons: 'Save changes' (green), 'See my listing' (yellow), 'See my page' (yellow), and 'Something wrong?' (yellow).

3 Scroll to What you charge and press Add an inspection.

It is the third card. The Inspection pricing box sits at the bottom of it, under the call out fee, mileage and labor rate. Your mileage rate still applies to inspections. Until you add something the box says "Nothing listed yet", and owners comparing inspectors skip past the ones who do not say what they charge.

Inspection pricing

Inspections are usually quoted per rig and per level rather than by the hour, so list what you actually sell. Add a line for each one. Mileage above still applies to inspections.

How far you are willing to drive

The circle on the map is how an owner decides whether to bother calling you. Make it honest.

Draw it too small and you miss work you would have happily driven to. Draw it too big and you spend your day turning people down, which wastes your time and theirs.

4 Fill in the card.

What you call it is the name owners see, in your own words: "Pre-purchase, full", "Condition inspection", "Fluid analysis". Which rig is Any rig, Travel trailer, Fifth wheel or Motorhome; a toy hauler or a Class A goes in the name. Price is in dollars; leave it empty and your listing says "Call for pricing", and a zero says "Free". Prices start here is ticked to begin with and puts "From" before the number; untick it if the price is the price. Anything owners should know is an optional line, such as what is included or what costs extra. The line at the bottom shows exactly what your listing will say.

5 Add a line for each thing you sell, then Save changes.

Press Add an inspection again for the next one: the same inspection on a different rig, a different level, or an add-on such as fluid analysis. There is no limit. Remove takes a line off. They appear on your listing in the order of the cards. Nothing is on your listing until you press the green Save changes button at the bottom and it says "Saved just now". A card with no name is dropped when you save.

6 This is what owners see on your listing.

Tap your pin on the map and the card's What they charge section lists them: the name and rig on the left, the price on the right, your note under it. If you do repairs as well, your technician rates and your inspection pricing sit in two boxes so nobody reads one as the other. Under them the card says these rates come from the business and are not a quote.

Two things to watch.

Put the rig in the Which rig box, not in the name, or your listing repeats it: "Full inspection, fifth wheel · Fifth wheel". And an empty price reads "Call for pricing", which is the gap owners skip past. If you cannot say a number, tick Prices start here and give the lowest one.
